

“Instead of debating, what if we talked over coffee about faith, grace, and homosexual people in our community? A wonderful, compelling, and pastoral conversation starter.”

Rev. Martin W. Eldred
Joy Lutheran Church
Eagle River, AK

“Beyond the rhetoric and political posturing, listen in on a conversation that might surprise you and could open the door for real conversation.”

Rev. Tim Phillips
Seattle First Baptist
Seattle, WA

Over Coffee: A Conversation for Gay Partnership & Conservative Faith is a narrative piece couched in the conversation between the author and a small-town pastor concerning a gay church member who desires to be partnered in the Church. Over Coffee warmly introduces the reader to a conservative, faith-based dialogue for providing room on the pew in today's most conservative churches for gay partnered persons.

The author, D.a. Thompson, a Seattle Washington based writer, speaker, and musician is tackling some of the front burner issues of today through a unique and diverse world view. His full-spectrum engagement lends a trifecta of consideration and reflection even now igniting controversy. D.a. is expanding restrained horizons by mind, mouth, and music.
